Dear Dr Laura/The IMW Journal Editorial Board

I hope that everything goes well with you and yours. By this email, I'd like to send you the revised version of my article draft on the 18th Century Bantenese Qur'an Study.

I already finished making revisions based on comments and suggestions from two reviewers. I am so lucky that my article draft received a very good feedback.

I will let you find the revised draft of my article, together with the ammendment summary, attached in this email.

Thank you very much for kindly help and response.
I look very much forward to hearing back from you.

Kind regards

Ervan Nurtawab

Dear Ervan

Thank you for your patience. Your second reviewer was injured and took longer than expected.

Nonetheless, I am pleased to inform you that both reviewers were impressed and intrigued by your article. They both have recommendations for significant revision, but we would be very pleased if you would revise and resubmit your article for further consideration.

Please let me know if you are happy to go ahead. If so, please also enclose a memo detailing how you have addressed the reviewers' comments.

All best wishes

Laura

Dear Dr Laura

Many thanks for your quick response.
That's just normal. There is no problem with that. I will just wait for the decision.

I thank you very much for kindly help.

With all good wishes

Dear Ervan

Many thanks for your email, and apologies for the delay.
As you correctly guessed, your paper is still under review and has been held up over the summer because several colleagues were away and not working as quickly as usual. I hope to have a decision for you soon and will let you know as soon as possible.

Best wishes

Laura

Dear Dr Laura/Editors of Indonesia and the Malay World (IMW)

I trust that this letter finds you well. It has been 4 months since I submitted my paper entitled "Qur'anic readings and Malay translation in 18th century Bantenese Qur'ans A.51 and W.277" to the editors of IMW journal through this email.

By this letter, I would like to ask whether you have received any updates regarding the submission. If there is still no update or the paper is still under review, that's perfectly fine. I can understand that the review sometimes takes very long.

I thank you very much for taking care of this matter.
really look forward to hearing back from you.

Kind regards
Ervan Nurtawab

Dear Ervan Nurtawab

Many thanks for entering your article to the YSP 2019. Can I ask that you also complete and return an article details form (attached).

The review and shortlisting process will take several weeks, but I will be in touch with a decision as soon as possible.

With best regards
Laura

Dear The Editorial Board of Indonesia and the Malay World (IMW)

I trust this letter finds you well. I write this letter to you in relation to my intention to take part in the IMW Young Scholar Prize 2019. I just completed my Ph.D. at Monash University in November 2018.

With regard to my participation in this event, I will let you find my research article entitled "Qur'anic readings and Malay translation in 18th century Bantenese Qur'ans A.51 and W.277", together with my brief CV, attached in this email.

I am very much interested to take part in this event, and that it is my honour to have my works published in your journal.

That's all and I look very much forward to hearing from you.

Kind regards,
Ervan Nurtawab
