This research is about an analysis on the use of simple past tense in English recount text made by the tenth graders of TKJ of SMK Pelita Bangunrejo. The objectives of this research were to find out errors of using simple past tense and personal pronoun in recount text written by the tenth graders of TKJ of SMK Pelita Bangunrejo and to find out the dominant errors made by the students in using simple past tense in recount text written by the first graders of TKJ of SMK Pelita Bangunrejo.

The instrument of research was test and documentation. The research using qualitative method. The result of this research showed that there are four types of error that occur; error of omission, error of addition, error of miss-formation and error of miss-ordering. The most dominant errors students made error of miss-formation with total 51 errors or 54,26%. It is higher than half of the total of errors made by the students. The error miss-formation is related to the use of the wrong form of the morpheme structure.

CHAPTER I

INTRODUCTION

A. Background of Study

English is an international language that has an important in various aspects of human life. It is a language that is used as a medium of communication and as the first international language used to interact with other people throughout the world. English mastery provides significant benefits in the process of communication both through writing and oral. The benefit of mastering English is that it can help people to interact with people around the world. It is easy to know the language of technology well because the language of technology today uses English. In addition, the opportunity to get a higher job becomes easy to access because English is a skill that is often used in various international jobs. Moreover, in Indonesia English is a foreign language so teaching English is an important role in both formal and informal Institutions. Furthermore, Teaching English includes of four language skills including listening, speaking, reading, and writing.

Writing is one of the skills in English mastery. It is very important for student because writing is the basic skill, just as important as listening, speaking, and reading. Moreover, writing is not only for communicating to each other but also for expressing an idea. In addition, it can be used for remembering something and for thinking critically as well. Based on explanation above, it can be concluded that writing is one of the important aspects for the students to learn English since it is one of the productive skills that is frequently used to convey the idea to communicate with the others besides speaking. Writing consists of various genres such as: description, exposition, argumentation and narration. Every genre has different forms, tenses, and purposes.

As one of the English language skills, writing is one of the language skills. Writing is also a way to put a thought into writing. In addition, it is an activity to create a record or information on a media using letters. Mastery of writing skill has tremendous benefits. Writing can hone one's memory. Writing can also add someone's insight and knowledge. In addition, writing can also train sharpness to concentrate.

The students usually have problems to create good sentence in writing process. It is caused by interference of first language that different with English especially in word order, so it causes errors by learners. This errors were cleared when the learner makes a written text. One kind of written text that engenders an error is recount text. Writing recount text is one of the productive skills that should be mastered by students especially in junior high school. It requires some aspects such as widely perception, involving thinking process and need good understanding on word order. In this case, the strong foundation in word order becomes an aspect that should be comprehended in order to make meaningful sentences in writing recount text.

Although junior high school students have been studying English since then Elementary school, but there are some students who still make word mistakes order of writing, especially in recount text. Problems are also faced Grade X TKJ student at SMK PELITA BANGUN REJO.

The students have assumed that writing is complicated. They face many problems especially process of putting ideas down on paper to transform into words and coherent organization. They add unnecessary word because they want to increase the length of their writing performance.

Researcher conducted a pre-survey on January 05, 2022 at Tenth grader at SMK PELITA BANGUNREJO. On this issue Researcher found, such as: most students lack of vocabulary, students it is difficult to understand the structure of the recount text, and rightly so still confused in composing words that are effective and have low grammar understanding in writing.

Data of pre survey result:

No	Name	Error sentences	Correct sentences	types of error
1.	AS	There many tourist	There are many tourist	Omission of verb.
2.	ER	I the evening I watched	I the evening i watched Tv	Omission of verb.
3.	GR	-	-	-
4.	ICL	When i there	When i was there	Omission of verb.
5.	RAR	Had no time to take rest.	I/you had no time to take a rest	Omission of subject

From data pre-survey above, data obtained from an English teacher, researcher found some mistakes made by students. First, most students do not use the subject in writing a sentence. Second, the researcher also found the absence of a verb in one sentence. Third, students do not use objects on verbs that require them. Based on the errors, many students write sentences without following the correct sentences. Pre-survey results are as follows: Regarding the justifications above the writer attempts to conduct a study which consists of a common error in the use of word order in the recount text performed by the students in Eighth Grader. Common errors to be found are the error phrases, the use of verbs, pronouns, and sentence composition. Based on the background that had been presented above the researcher identifies the problem as follows:

1. There were some errors using word order, the use of verb the using of subjects and objects in recount text.
2. The dominant errors make sentences based on the word order to make recount text.

The researcher realizes that it was impossible to investigate the entire problem in writing error. Therefore, the researcher limits the problems only to the analysis word order used in recount text by the students of the tenth grade of SMK PELITA BANGUNREJO.

B. Reseach Question

In reference to the background of the problem above, the researcher states the problem as follows:

1. What kinds of errors in using word order in recount text among the tenth grade at SMK PELITA BANGUNREJO?
2. What is the dominant factor that causes word order errors in recount text committed by the students among the tenth grade at SMK PELITA BANGUNREJO?

C. Problem limitation

This study is concerned on analyzing of error word order that is used in recount text made by students at The Tenth Grade of SMK Pelita Bangunrejo. In this study, researcher only focus on the preparation of word order SVO (subject, verb, and object) of noun phrase in recount text. The writer focused in the order of recount text sentences specifically for arrangement of subject, predicate and the object of sentence in recount text.

D. Problem formulation

Based on the problem limitation above, the researcher would like to formulate the problems:

What kind of error that students make in using simple past tense in writing recounts among the tenth grade of SMK Pelita Bangunrejo.

E. Objectives and Benefits of the Study

1. Objectives of the study Based on the problem above, the purpose of this research are to know the kinds errors made by the students in using word order in recount text among tenth grade of SMK Pelita Bangunrejo and to know the dominant factor that caused word order errors in recount text committed by the students among the tenth grade of SMK Pelita Bangunrejo
2. Benefits of the study this study is expected to give some benefits especially for teachers, students, and other researchers.
  - a. For Students the result of this study can show the progress in learning word order and it is hoped that for the students it can be a motivation in learning English, particularly writing.

- b. For Teachers the result of this study can show the progress in learning word order and it is hoped that the students can be as motivation in learning English, particularly writing.
- c. For the other researchers As a prior knowledge to conducted the other researcher

F. Prior Research

This research was done based on some prior researches. The first prior research was done by Anisa fitriyani. The first study is —An Error Analysis of Word Order Used in Recount Tex Made by Students at The Tenth Grader of MAN 1 Kota Magelang Academic Year of 2013/2014 by Anisa fitriyani (2013) In creating sentence, word order held an important role to make the sentence can be understood.<sup>1</sup>

In constructing sentence, word order errors are visible in the omission of subject, predicate or object and the wrong composition of sentence constituent. Whereas in word order distribution, the error occurred in the arrangement of modifier + head noun. Besides that, according to the questionnaire, the dominant factor that caused the error is carelessness in which the students still confuse and do not have motivation to learn English.

The second study is —an analysis of students error in writing Recount Text (A Case Study In The Eighth Grader Students Of Smp Trimulia Jakarta Selatan 2013/2014) by Cholipah 2014 This study was carried out to find empirical evidence of the most common errors and the source of errors in recount text writing made by the Eighth Grader students of SMP Trimulia Jakarta. The result of the study showed that there are the highest-three and the lowest-three errors made by the students. The highest-three common errors are capitalization with the number is 200 or 23.90% errors, word choice with the number is 110 or 13.14% errors and verb tense with the number is 105 or 12.54% errors. The lowest-three errors are 3 or 0.36% incomplete sentence errors, 13 or 1.55% meaning not clear errors and 21 or 2.51% singular-plural errors. Based on the total result types of errors, the writer found that the number of total source of errors are communication strategy has 428 or 51.14% source of errors, inter lingual transfer has 295 or 35.24% source of errors, intra lingual transfer has 94 or 11.23% source of errors, and context of learning has 20 or 2.39% source of errors. <sup>2</sup>

The third prior research in an undergraduate thesis by Selvia Lisa Asni and Susi Susanti, from from STKIP Al-Azhar Diniyyah, Jambi, Indonesia, entitled “An Analysis of Grammatical ErrorS In Writing Recount Text AT The Eight Grade of SMP Negeri 20 Kota Jambi”. This study aims to analyze and classify the types or mistakes of students using simple writing simple future tense composition consists of past tense in writing recount text. In addition, this study also aims to identify the cause of errors made by the students using simple past tense in writing recount text. This research used qualitative method with case study approach. Furthermore, the researchers chose the 8th grade students and observed 26 students. The researchers used a written test and interviews to gain the data from student participants and an English teacher participant. Based on this research, it is found that students do all kinds of errors (omission, addition, selection and misordering). The type of error most often done by the students was omission error with 166 errors or 38.97%. The second position was a selection error with 162 errors or 38.03%. The third position was the addition error with 67 errors or 15.73%. Then the last error was misordering error with 31 errors or 7.28%. In addition, the errors were caused by the complexity of the English system itself and not because of the influence of the Indonesian system (intralingual transfer). Moreover, students lacked of understanding of the grammar that became the cause of the error. In this study, most students did not understand verb forms (present and past form of the verbs) as well as the proper use of “be” in a sentence. This suggested that students had difficulty with the use of grammar in writing.<sup>3</sup>

Based on the above findings the researcher has several differences between previous studies, one of the differences is that researcher focus on analyzing of error especially in writing of recount text for the tenth grade at SMK Pelita Bangunrejo.

THEORETICAL REVIEW

A. The Concept of Writing

Harmer argued that writing is a process that we write is often heavily influenced by the limitations of genres, and then the elements have to be present in learning activities. It means that writing is a part of learning activities that give effect in language style to our life. In other hand, Thomas stated at other time something about us, experience, and feeling was expressed by writing.<sup>4</sup> It means that writing is the activity for transferring the information to the others. Moreover, by writing people can express the ideas, experiences, thoughts, and feeling into written form , It means that writing as one of the four language skills is not an activity in its own right but one which serves the other skills. Writing is central to children's intellectual, social and emotional development and plays a critical role in learning. It is therefore essential that the early teaching of writing should draw on research which describes the types of texts that students have to write at different stages.<sup>5</sup>

B. The Concept of Simple Past Tense

1. The Definition of Simple Past Tense

In English, we know the word grammar. Sometimes grammar is defined as the way words are combined to form the correct sentence. This means that through good grammar, the learner or student can easily understand the meaning of the sentence. Grammatically, we also know tenses. English learners should know at least five tenses, namely: present tense, continues tense, future tense and perfect tense. Therefore, the students use simple past tense in writing recount text. Wilson Explains that simple past tense is used to report activity which can be described to a definite past time. According to Martin, simple past is one of the tenses that refer to completed events, states or actions. Use simple past tense in events, states, or actions that occurred in the past period of time. Last week, weekends and so on. This means that when an event or state is completed within a period of time, the simple past tense was be used. Betty also stated that, simple past tense is used to talk about activities or situation that began and ended at a particular time in the past<sup>6</sup>. In line with Betty, Uchiyama said that simple past tense is an action that ended in the past. It can be used for most of past actions: we can use it for actions that happened quickly, actions that happened over time, or actions that were habits in the past<sup>7</sup>. From the statement above, it can be said that past tense is a tense that refers to actions that have finished in a certain period of time such as; yesterday, last week, last month and so on.

2. The formula of simple past tense

Verb used in simple past tense is the past form of verb. There are two types of verb, regular verb and irregular verb. Simple past tense, a regular past form ends in –ed, some verb have an BE past form. We use did and also were and was in negatives and questions. The formula of simple past tense consist of three parts: affirmative, negative, and interrogative.<sup>8</sup>

a. Form of Simple Past Tense Regular Verb

The simple past tense of most verbs requires an –ed ending with regular verb. No other conjugational endings are needed for any of people in either singular or plural

- 1) The first type (affirmative) of the simple past in regular verb form used the formula is: S + V2 + O + Adverbs. For example : She watched movies last night. From the example it can be seen that the form is used regular verb added-ed in the end verb.
- 2) The second type, the negative formula of simple past tense in regular is: S + did not + V1 + O + Adverbs. For example : She did not watch movie last night. Based on the example, it can be seen that the verb in negative form use the simple form ( V1 ), then te use of did not is before the main verb.
- 3) The last type of formula of simple past tense in regular verb is interrogative. The formula is : did/ didn't + S + V1 + O + Adverbs?

For example: Did she watch movie last night? and Did not the play game this morning? The example above show that in the interrogative form, the verb used is V1, in other words there is no ending –ed in the verb in question form.

In simple past tense, a regular past form ends in –ed, and we use did in negatives and questions. The following table shows the example about regular form ends in-ed and negative did not (didn't) and question did. Form of simple past regular verb Statement I-You-She-He-It-We-They worked yesterday.

Negative I-You-She-He-It-We-They did not (didn't) work yesterday.

Questions Did I-You-She-He-It-We-They work yesterday?

Short answer Yes, I-You-She-He-It-We-They did. No, I-You-She-He-It-We-They did not.

b. Form of Simple Past in Irregular Verb

The form of irregular verb in simple past tense is more than one way. It makes a vowel change and it also makes a vowel and consonant. Sometime, a few words of past tense look identical to present tense.

1) Affirmative

S + Verb2 + ...

Example : - I bought some books.

- he got accident last week.

2) Negative

S + did not + Verb 1 + ...

Example: - I did not meet her after lunch yesterday.

- She did not get an accident last night.

3) Interrogative

Did/did not + S + Verb 1 + ...

Example : - Did You meet her yesterday? Yes, I did / No, I did not.

- Did she get an accident last night? Yes, she did / No. She did not.

- Did they go to the concert? Yes, they did / No, They did not.

c. Verb BE

There were two English verbs that require a special look in the simple past tense;<sup>9</sup>

Verb be

Subject	To be	To have
I	Was	Had
You	Were	Had
They	Were	Had
We	Were	Had
He, she, it	Was	Had

d. Auxiliaries

Not all of auxiliaries can be formed in the past tense. For the example, the auxiliaries “will” uses with synonym meaning for the 23 past tense:

will = would. The auxiliary “can” had a past tense form “Could” or “be able to”. The auxiliaries “might” had a past tense “had to”.

1) The Example of Simple Past Tense

a) The Positive Form of Simple Past Tense:

(1) Verbal Sentence : (S + Verb 2 + O/C)

Example : He went to Jambi Yesterday

(2) Nominal Sentence : (S+ Were/Was+ Not Verb + O/C)

Example : We were in the library last night.

b) The Negative Form of Simple Past Tense:

(1) Verbal Sentence : (S + Did + Not + Verb 1 + O/C)

Example : he did go to Jambi yesterday

(2) Nominal Sentence : ( S+ Were/Was+ Not + O/C)

Example: We Were not in the library last night.

c) The Interrogative Form of Simple Past Tense:

1) Verbal Sentence : (Did + S + Verb 1 + O/C)

Example : Did he go to Jambi yesterday?

2) Nominal Sentence : ( Were/Was + S + O/C)

Example: Were we in the library last night?

2) The function of past tense

It is used to talk about things that happened in the past k15 .

a. It is there for used

1) For a past action when the time is given: I met her last moon.

2) Or when the time ask about: When did you meet her?

- 3) Or when the action clearly took place at a definite time event though this time is not mentioned: The Bus was ten minutes late. b. The Simple past tense is used for an action whose time is not given but which 1) occupied a period of time now terminated, or 2) occurred at a moment in a period of time now terminated.

Example of type 1

He worked in that bank for four years ( but he does not work now).

Example of type 2

My grandmother once saw Queen Elizabeth.

- d) The simple past tense is also used for a past habit

He always carried an umbrella.

The writer can say that the simple past tense is used to discuss activities or situations that occurred in the past period of time, or the simple past tense is used to complete actions that occurred at a specific time in the past.

3. The Function of Simple Past Tense

- a. It is used to talk about things that happened in the past.
- b. It is there for used
  - 1) For a past action when the time is given:
I meet her last week.
  - 2) Or when the time asks about:

When did you meet her?

- 3) Or when the action clearly took place at a definite time event
- 4) though this time is not mentioned:

The winter was ten minutes late.

- c. The Simple past tense is used for an action whose time is not given but which 1) occupied a period of time now terminated, or 2) occurred at a moment in a period of time now terminated.

4. Tense

Tense is the form of a verb that shows the time something happened, or is went to happen. There are three main tenses:

- a. Present tense: things that are true when the words are spoken or written.
Example: She goes to school. In this sentence, goes shows that it is a present tense. It suggests that she regularly goes to school.
- b. Past tense: things that were true before the words were spoken or written.
Example: She went to school. In this sentence, went shows that it is a past tense.
- c. Future tense: things that will be true after the words are spoken or written.
Example: She will go to school. In this sentence, will shows that it is a future tense.<sup>10</sup>

Tense can be shown by changing the spelling of a verb. For example, be can become am, is, and are in present tense, and was and were in past tense. In English, future tense is shown by adding will before the verb. For example, be becomes will be in future tense.

C. The concept of recount text writing

1. The Definition Of writing

Writing is a medium of human communication that involves the representation of a language through a system of physically inscribed, mechanically transferred, or digitally represented symbols. Writing systems are not themselves human languages (with the debatable exception of computer languages); they are means of rendering a language into a form that can be reconstructed by other humans separated by time and/or space. While not all languages use a writing system, those with systems of inscriptions can complement and extend capacities of spoken language by enabling the creation of durable forms of speech that can be transmitted across space (e.g., correspondence) and stored over time (e.g., libraries or other public records). It has also been observed that the activity of writing itself can have knowledge-transforming effects, since it allows humans to externalize their thinking in forms that are easier to reflect on, elaborate, reconsider, and revise. Writing relies on many of the same semantic structures as the speech it represents, such as lexicon and syntax, with the added dependency of a system of symbols to represent that language's phonology and morphology. The result of the activity of writing is called a text, and the interpreter or activator of this text is called a reader<sup>11</sup>.

The kinds of writing are elaborated as follows:

a. Descriptive

Malraux highlighted that generally descriptive is sensory experience or visual experience, it is about how something looks, sounds, and tastes.<sup>12</sup>

In organizing the descriptive writing is highly required to begin the paragraph with a topic sentence which briefly explain the significance of the described object, describe the object in four or five sentence, and conclude the paragraph with the emphasizing the characteristic of the item.

b. Narrative

The narrative writing refers to the story which happens in the past. In the other words, when the author write down the narrative writing it means that author tells about the story. The topics in narrative writing can be about biographies, autobiographies, historical event, instructions, and processes. Therefore, a good narrative writing contains three basic characteristics such as it is clearly organized in time, makes a central point, and also includes the specific relevant details to the main point.

c. Expository

This kind of writing is elaborated into the explanation and analysis of information to the reader. The useful parts of expository are knowledge of description and narration. These parts generate the briefness explanation within a paragraph to make the effective expository writing. The expository includes editorials, essays, informative and instructional material.

d. Argumentative

Bill states that argumentative writing is formed by the specific argument or statement namely debatable statement. Uncertain statement deals with the argument in which the reader may disagree with it. Consequently, the writer needs to support statement in order to persuade the readers.<sup>13</sup>

e. Recount

A recount text is a text that telling the reader about one story, action or activity. Its goal is to entertaining or informing the reader.

Based on the quotations, the kinds of writing is divided into some kinds namely Descriptive, Narrative, Expository, Argumentative, Recount. Every kinds have the characteristic itself and also different one another. In this research, the researcher chooses recount text as the material used. Recount text is a text that tells story or experience the writers in the past.

2. The component of writing

Six kinds of components in writing. They are content, unity, completeness, organization, vocabulary, and mechanics.

a. Content

The content of the text must be understandable. Thus, the reader can understand the message in the text and get information from it. There is measurable thinking in linking with components. The composition must contain one main purpose, must have unity, must have coherence and continuity, and must be developed adequate.

b. Unity

Unity means that text content and structure both relate to the writing assignment. The text deals with the topic, it is oriented to the writing-goal and the audience and it reflects the essential features of an informative text since participant's assignment analysis is controlled by the researcher, this criterion will not play an important role.

The writing regards to have good unity, if it has some main ideas and the sentences contained in it develop that idea. The main idea is stated in the topic sentences and each or every supported sentences and related to that idea of the topic sentences. If a writer wants his writing is unified, he or she should not include the sentences that do not support the main idea of the topic sentences.

c. Completeness

Completeness, a complete paragraph provides information well enough and it develops the truth for the reader. In complete paragraph, the writers provide the readers with restricted topic sentences and sufficient information to clarify analyze and support the main idea that which is stated in the topic.

Writing is said to have completeness if the main idea have been explained and developed fully completeness. The controlling idea with develop thoroughly by these of particular information. It is relative to know how complex or general the topic sentences by having a complete writing. It is expected that the content of writing will be clear and understandable for readers.

d. Organization

Organization is the overall structure of piece of writing. The most workable method to organized essay is to state the main idea of the paper in an opening paragraph and the devote a separate paragraph in the body to each major division of thought.

Organization concerns with the way of how the writer arranges and organize their idea and their message in writing from which consist of same partial order. In writing, the writer should know about what kinds of paragraph that they want to writer and what topic that they want to tell to the readers. It must be supported by cohesion

e. Vocabulary

Vocabulary is the list of word and sometimes plus usually arranged in alphabetical order that expired at point. Vocabulary is an area which gives the students various kinds of learning problems, including spelling. It is also an area where it can be useful for them to have reference lists, in the form of lexical sets, such as clothes, furniture, food, etc.

f. Mechanics

The use of mechanics is due to capitalization, punctuation, and spelling appropriately. These aspects are very important, it leads the readers to understand, to recognize immediately. The use of favorable mechanic in writing will make readers easy to group the conveying ideas or the message to the written materials<sup>14</sup>.

3. The Process of writing

Writing is a process that involves at least four distinct steps: prewriting, drafting, revising, and editing. It is known as a recursive process. While you are revising, you might have to return to the prewriting step to develop and expand your ideas<sup>15</sup>.

a. Prewriting

Prewriting is the step in which tools such as free writing, brainstorming, outlining, or clustering are used. In prewriting, no idea is too off topic or too strange. It is these sometimes dissociative ideas that can lead you to a paper topic that you never would have considered. Though the common perception is that there is nothing that hasn't been written about before, if you allow yourself to think outside the box, you can find a way of looking at an old topic through new eyes.

b. Drafting

Drafting is the beginning of “writing” your paper. It is important to remember that in drafting you should already have a thesis idea to guide your writing. Without a thesis, your writing will be prone to drift, making it harder to frame after the fact. In drafting, the writer should use materials created in the prewriting stage and any notes taken in discovery and investigation to frame and build body paragraphs. Many writers will tackle their body paragraphs first instead of beginning with an introduction (especially if you are not sure of the exact direction of your paper). Beginning with body paragraphs will allow you to work through your ideas without feeling restricted by a specific thesis, but be prepared to delete paragraphs that don’t fit. Afterwards, create an opening paragraph (with an appropriate revised thesis) that reflects the body of your essay.

c. Revising

There are two different scopes of revision: global and local. Global revision involves looking for issues like cohesion and the overall progression of your paper. If your paper has paragraphs that do not flow into each other, but change topic abruptly only to return to a previous thought later, your paper has poor cohesion. If your topics change from paragraph to paragraph, it is necessary to either consider altering the order of your paragraph and/or revising your writing either by adding to existing paragraphs or creating new ones that explain your change in topic. A paper that includes smooth transitions is significantly easier to read and understand. It is preferable to keep all like thoughts together and to arrange your paragraphs in such a way that your argument builds, rather than laying everything out with equal weight. Though the blueprint for your paper is in the thesis, your main point, the end result of your argument should not come early in the paper, but at the end. Allow the early paragraphs serve as examples and information to build to your conclusions.

Local issues involve looking for clarity in sentences, ensuring coherence with your ideas. The greatest asset to avoiding and fixing local issues is to use varied sentence structure and to avoid using the same words repeatedly. Repeating the same sentence structure can make your paper feel mechanical and make an interesting topic feel boring.

d. Editing

The final stage in writing a paper requires a review of what you have written. In this last read of your paper, you should look for any grammar, spelling, or punctuation errors that have slipped through the cracks during the revising stage, or that were introduced in your revisions. Reading your paper a loud, or asking a friend to read your paper to you is a good way to catch errors. Often if you read your own paper, especially out loud, you can catch errors in grammar, spelling, and punctuation. Though this step seems minor within the process of writing, it is an easy way to prevent the loss of points over simple mistakes.

4. Definition of Recount Text

Actually, According to Marianne, writing is the process to gain a product. The product of writing is the written word that results in a text but the text must be read and comprehended in order for communication to take place. Similarly, writing is one of the communication tools in various aspects that help the people in realizing their communication.<sup>16</sup> Recount is the text telling the reader what happened. It retells a past event. It begins by telling the reader who was involved, what happened, where this event took place and when it happened writing recount is said that it may be a reorientation at the end. It summarizes the event in the order in which they happened (chronological order). Recount is written to retell events with the purpose of either informing or entertaining their audience (or both).

that the purpose of a recount is to list and describe past experiences by retelling events in the order in which they happened (chronological order). To achieve its purpose, the text will move through a different set of stages: a) an orientation letting the reader knows who is involved, where, when, etc. b) the retelling of a series of events in chronological sequence. Recounts are written to retell events with the purpose of either informing or entertaining their audience (or both). Frequent use is made of words, which link events in time, such as next, after, when then, after, before, first, at the same time. It describes events, so plenty of use is made of verbs (action words), and of adverbs (which describe or add more details are often chosen to add interest or humor to the recount).

a. Types of Recount

1) Personal Recount

These usually retell an event that the writer was personally involved in.

2) Factual Recount

Recording an incident, e.g. a science experiment, police report.

3) Imaginative Recount

Writing an imaginary role and giving details of events, e.g. A day in the life of a pirate.

b. Features of Recounts and Conventions

The recount has a title, which summarizes the text. Past tense verbs are used, and frequent use is made of words which link events in time, such as next, later, when, then, after, before, first. Recounts describe events, so plenty of use is made of verbs (action words), and of adverbs (which describe or add more detail to verbs).

Furthermore, Brown explains that writing is a process of composing multiple drafts in order to make an effective product. It can be organized a thought, ideas, and feeling. In composing process, the draft is crucially needed as a first step to develop ideas. Without drafting it is hard to begin that process. After developing the thought or ideas, the revision should be applied in order that it gained a good product. Written products are frequently produced from the result of thinking, drafting, and revising procedures.<sup>17</sup>

Actually, the purpose of a recount is recalls and reconstructs events, experiences and achievements from the past in a logical sequence. Its mean that recount text is to describe past experiences by retelling events in the order in which they happened.

Moreover, Recount text is the text types tells the reader what happened in an informative or entertaining way. It is important that students understand that recount describe past events in the order in which they occurred. It begins by telling the reader who was involved, what happened, where this event took place and what it happened.

Furthermore, Recount text is a text which tells the reader about something that was happened. It can be a story recount or factual recount. A recount text can retell an Recount text writing skill is the type of writing that is the text which tells the story that was happened in the past. The purpose of recount text writing is recording the ideas which characters and words express, or of communicating them to others by visible sign. It is used by the people to share their thoughts, feelings, and ideas with others people in the form of written communication.

5. The Generic Structure of Recount Text

Below is the generic structure of recount text<sup>18</sup>.

- a. Orientation (who were involved in the story, when, and where).
- b. Events (tell what happened in a chronological order).
- c. Re-orientation/optional (the conclusion of the experience).

6. Language Features of Recount Text

Language features is a characteristic of the text, to make it is easily recognized, what tense is used, and so on.

- a. Introduced the participants
- b. Used chronological conjunction, such as; first, second, then, etc.
- c. Used action verb, such as; went, arrived, ate, jumped, etc.
- d. Used adverb and adverb of phrases, such as; in my house, slowly, etc.
- e. Used adjectives, such as; beautiful, sunny, etc.
- f. The important one is used simple past tense.

D. The Problem of writing recount text

In writing texts, many vocational high school students find several problems, for example students cannot distinguish the classification of verbs, students are still confused about the generic structure of the recount text itself, students have a lack of vocabulary. For the problem, students claim that they have ideas but they do not have the skills to express them in the target language. Those are some issues that must be considered, such as; mechanical problems with English characters, problems with grammatical and lexical accuracy of English, problems relating writing styles to the demands of certain situations, and problems developing cases and comfort in expressing what needs to be said.

Next, the researcher explained some of the problems faced by teachers and students with their strategies to overcome these problems.

1. The focused Faced by the Students

The students also faced some problems in learning writing recount text, they are:

- a. Distinguishing verb: the students find difficulty when they have to change the present verb form into past form, they also do not understood yet in differentiating between irregular verb and regular verb.
- b. Developing idea during writing recount text: some students get difficulties in developing their ideas in writing recount text and some of them is also get difficulties to get and decide the idea before writing a recount text.
- c. Lack of vocabulary: the students do not translate their word from Indonesian into English easily because of lack of vocabulary itself and they find difficulty not only in translating from Indonesian into English, but also in translating English into Indonesian too.

The strategies to overcome the problems faced by the students in learning writing recount text are the students ask help to the teacher and their classmates who know about their difficulties. The students who have difficulties in developing paragraph, they need teacher's help to provoke their idea. The lack of vocabulary which the students have is also one of the problems in writing recount text. The students also realize that they are lack of vocabulary, so when they know the meaning of the word, they write it down on their note book.

Based on the explanation above, the researcher concluded that the students do not have good inspiration to write in English. So, the researcher to attempt uses the holiday picture as media to improve their writing especially in recount text.

Writing skills are very important skills in life, not only important in educational life, but also very important in people's lives. Writing skill is very important because it is one of the language skills that must be possessed by students. By writing students can express or express their ideas or opinions, thoughts, and feelings. In addition, it can develop students' thinking power and creativity in writing.

Writing is generally considered the most difficult skill or four for students. One of the obstacles for students in learning to write recount texts is that students usually find it difficult to organize their ideas. Besides, many students made some mistakes and has difficulty building and developing his imagination.” In addition, most students hate learning to write because learning to write is boring and difficult<sup>19</sup>.

In writing recount text, students find it difficult to organize their ideas. They don't understand about how to develop their imagination and express ideas into good content. Students also do not understand the grammar and sentence structure of recount text. They do not arrange sentences into verb forms. 2. Examples of students' writing assignments are taken from document analysis. You can see the explanation

Bellow:

1. Students have problems in content.

In making good content, students must make appropriate paragraphs and blend with the topic. Unity means that all sentences in a paragraph must be united around a central point or controlling idea. This controlling idea is usually stated in the topic sentence. In this case, the paragraph describes one idea.

For example:

Visiting Uncle's House

On Sunday, 25th December, I and family went to uncle' house. We walked down and go on the individual car. After we arrived at the gardens, we walked down to the livestock cow. We looked at all the lovely plants with beautiful and air fresh. In the morning we had drank tea warm.

Next we took some pictures. After that, we want to uncle's house and arrived at 01.00 P.M. uncle asked us to have a lunch together and took a break.

From recount text above, researcher found that the students did not compose their writing in recount text coherently. It means that the paragraph has no unity. Researcher also found that the content of each paragraph did not appropriate with the topic. The title was about Visiting uncle's House, but the content was about holiday in garden. In summary, title did not fit with the content or paragraph.

2. The students have problem in Grammar and Sentence Structure.

The students should pay attention about sentence pattern. The students should make grammatical sentences in their writing recount text. The students should understand well about tenses that is used in the past or when they want to write recount text. In this case, the students use past tense form (verb II).

For example:

- a. Last holiday, my friends and I go to Kute Beach. (FALSE)
- b. After that, we come to Prambanan and take photo together. (FALSE)
- c. We are very happy. (FALSE)

The correct sentences:

- a. Last holiday, my friends and I went to Kute Beach. (TRUE)
- b. After that, we came to Prambanan and took photo together. (TRUE)
- c. We were very happy. (TRUE)

Based on example above, students did not make grammatical sentences in their writing recount text. The students forget to use verb II (past tense). It can be concluded that the students do not understand well yet about tenses that is used in recount text.

3. The students have problem in Mechanics.

In mechanics, the students should understand and pay attention about capitalization, punctuation, and spelling.

For example

- a. Last month i was very happy Because my family and I played at the field.We were very happy. (FALSE)"
- b. After played we shaked hand each other. (FALSE)

The correct sentences:

- a. Last month, I was very happy. Because my family and I played at the field. We were very happy. (TRUE)
- b. After played, we shaked hand each other. (TRUE)

Based on example above, students did not pay attention about mechanics. They less attention about punctuation, and capitalization. In summary, the researcher concludes that the students' problem in writing recount text are the students have problem in making idea (unity) of the content, grammar and sentence structure, and mechanics.

E. The Concept of Error Analysis

1. Definition of Error Analysis

Richards says that error analysis is the study of errors made by the second and foreign language learners. Error analysis may be carried out in order to

- a. Identify strategies word
- b. hich learner use in language learning.
- c. Try to identify the causes of learner error
- d. Obtain information on common difficulties in language learning, as an aid in teaching or in the preparation of teaching materials.<sup>20</sup> Its mean that error analysis is a technique for identifying classification, and systematically interpreting the unacceptable forms produced by someone learning a foreign language. Human learning is fundamentally a process that involves the making of mistakes. Mistakes, Misjudgments, miscalculations, and wrong assumptions of an important matter. In distinguishing between error and mistake, that errors reflect gaps in the student's knowledge, it occurred because the students does not know what is the correct, whereas mistake reflect occasional lapses in performance, they occur because, in particular instance, the students untenable to perform what he or she knows.

e. The Differences Between Mistakes and Errors

In order interference in a proper perspective, it is crucial to make a distinction between mistakes and errors, technically two very different phenomena.<sup>21</sup> Native speakers normally are able to identify and correct the mistakes. An error shows the competence of learner. An error can not be self-correct, and a mistake can be self-corrected. Actually mistake and error are different but both of them can be analyzed if we know the problem.

- 1) Mistakes are usually decisions that prove to be wrong. Mistakes are usually unintentional. You recognize it's wrong. In different words, errors are supported performance and may be corrected on their own. Miscalculation is a smaller amount formal than an error and is sometimes utilized in conversational speech.
- 2) Errors are typically created thanks to a scarcity of knowledge. So, the action was wrong as a result of it had been completely different from the rules, model, or specific code. Error could be a additional formal word than a mistake. In sports, the violation of rules are went to be 19 referred to as associate error. you can not say, "I do my homework" – that's an error! you have got to say, "I do my homework".

2. Sources of Error

The sources of error due of transfers rules from the mother tongue to the target language sometimes called —inter lingual errors‡. As e have already seen, inter lingual error is a significant source of error. While it is not always clear that an error is the result of transfer from the mother tongue to the target language, learners also make many errors, which show they are processing the second language in its own terms. Error of this second type often called —intra lingual errors‡. This type is often similar to those produced by the child in the mother tongue and suggest that the second interference is employing similar strategies, notably generalization Another source of error is developmental errors occur when the learner attempts to built up hypotheses about the target language on the basic of limited experience.

- a. Carelessness is often closely related to lack of motivation<sup>22</sup>. Many teachers will admit that it is not always the student’s fault if he loses interests; perhaps the materials and/or style of presentation do not suit them.
- b. First language Norrish states that language learning is matter of habit formation. When someone tries to learn new habits the old ones will interfere the new ones. This cause of error is called the first language interference.

- c. Translation is one of the causes of errors. It happens because a student translates his first language sentence or idiomatic expression into the target language word by word. This probably the most common cause of error.

3. Classification Of Error

Global error are defined as those violate rules involved in the overall structure of a sentences the relation between part of clauses or in a simple sentence. Local error, on other hand cause trouble in a part of particular, or in a clause of a complex sentence. Regarding to explanation above, the writer concludes that global error is higher on the hyraces than the local one. Thus the sentences with both global and local one or even group of local one. In error analysis we have to identify the sources of error. The researchers and the teachers of foreign language came to realize that the errors a person made in the process of constructing a new system of language is needed to be analyzed carefully. It is significant because it show a student's progress, show how a language is acquired, what strategies the learner uses, and the student can learn from these error.

These errors are the most likely to attract readers' negative attention.

a. Wrong word

Wrong word errors take several forms. They may convey a slightly different meaning than you intended (writing instead of compiling) or a completely wrong meaning (faking instead of procrastinating). They may also be as simple as a wrong preposition or some other type of wrong word in an idiom.

Use your spell checker with care. If you select a word without knowing its exact meaning or allowing the spell checker to automatically correct your spelling, you may have made a word error. If prepositions and idioms are difficult for you, seek their standard usage.

Here are some examples of incorrect words:

Did you catch my illusion to the Koran?

Illusion means “a false perception of reality.” In the context of this sentence, the figure of speech is needed because it means “reference”.

Edmund Spenser's The Faerie Queene is an extraordinary sixteenth-century allergist.

The spell checker replaces allegory with allergy.

b. Mechanical Error with a Quotation

When we quote other writers, we bring their voices into our arguments. Quotation marks crucially show where their words end and our own begin.

Quotation marks come in pairs; don't forget to open and close your quotations. In most documentation styles (e.g., MLA Style), block quotations do not need quotations marks. Consult your professor's preferred style manual to learn how to present block quotations.

Follow conventions when used quotation marks with other punctuation. Here, the comma should be placed inside the quotation marks:

"A woman must have money and a room of her own if she is to write fiction", Virginia Woolf argues.

c. Unnecessary Comma

We often have a choice about whether or not to use a comma. But if we add them to our sentences when and where they are not needed, then we may obscure rather than clarify our meaning.

Do not use commas to set off restrictive elements that are necessary to the meaning of the words they modify. Here, for example, no comma is needed to set off the restrictive phrase of working parents, which is necessary to indicate which parents the sentence is talking about.

Many children, of working parents, walk home from school by themselves.

Do not use a comma before a coordinating conjunction (and, but, for, nor, or, so, yet) when the conjunction does not join parts of a compound sentence. In this example, no comma is needed before the word and because it joins two phrases that modify the same verb, applies.

This social scourge can be seen in urban centers, and in rural outposts.

Do not use a comma before the first or after the last item in a series.

The students asked their task to review, the assignment rubric, a sample paper and their comments, before the end of the quarter.

Do not use a comma between a subject and verb.

Do not use a comma between a verb and its object or complement.

On her way home from work, she bought, a book at the bookstore.

Do not use a comma between a preposition and its object.

On her way home from work, she bought a book at, the bookstore.

d. Unnecessary or Missing Capitalization

Capitalize proper nouns and proper adjectives, the first words of sentences, and important words in titles, along with certain words indicating directions and family relationships. Do not capitalize most other words. When in doubt, check a dictionary.

Financial Aid is a pressing concern for many University Students.

e. Missing Word

If you read your work outloud before submitting, you are more likely to notice omitted words. Be particularly careful not to omit words from quotations.

Soccer fans the globe rejoiced when the striker scored the second goal.

F. Teaching Writing

As Gordon Taylor suggested that: If we are to write well we need to know (as well as we can) what we are talking about. In order to find out what, precisely, we are talking about we need to write. Pushing ourselves to write will often reveal that we know more about a subject than we at first supposed; it should just as often reveal large gaps in our understanding of matters we thought ourselves fairly sure of. In writing we bring knowledge into being, we record and preserve it. Writing is the seed, the fruit and the pickle of our understanding.<sup>23</sup>

Writing is one of the four language skills that should be taught by the English teacher. Recognition of the compositional nature of writing has changed the face of writing classes. Based on the researcher's pre-observation, writing teachers were mostly concerned with the final product of writing for example the final product of the report, the narrative, the procedure, the story and what the product should look like.

- 1) Help student writers to understand their own composing process.
- 2) Help them to build repertoires of strategies for prewriting, drafting and rewriting.
- 3) Give students time to write and rewrite.
- 4) Place central importance on the process of revision.
- 5) Let students discover what they want to say as they write.

- 6) Give students feedback throughout the composing process (not just on the final product) as they attempt to bring their expression closer and closer to intention.
- 7) Include individual conferences between teacher and student during the process of composition.<sup>24</sup>

CHAPTER III

RESEARCH METHOD

This chapter focuses on the research methods that will be implemented in the research, types and characteristics of research, data resources, data collection techniques, data validity, data analysis techniques and methods.

A. Research Location

This research carries out at SMK Pelita Bangunrejo. Which is located in Bangun Rejo, Bangunrejo, Central Lampung Regency, Lampung 34173

B. Subject And Object Of The Study

The subjects of this study were students of class X SMK Pelita Bangunrejo. Especially in the tenth grade of TKJ, the number of students in that class is twenty-eight students consisting of 10 boys and 18 girls. The writer chose this class because some students in this class had difficulty and had low scores in past tense writing skills.

C. Types and Characteristic Research

In this study, the researcher analyzed grammatical errors in the use of Simple past tense. Researchers observe the importance of learning, simple grammar difficulties using past tense in recount text to easily understand the structure and content of the text. After seeing the situation above, the writer decided to do qualitative study to analyze grammatical errors in the use of the simple past tense in Experience Text.

1. The definition of qualitative research

Qualitative research is research Which involves analyzing and interpreting texts and interviews to find descriptive meaningful patterns of certain phenomena. Means qualitative research is research that analyzes, interpretation of the text, and the results of interviews with the aim of finding meaning of the phenomenon<sup>25</sup>. Creswell also states that qualitative research is a means to explore and understand the meanings ascribed to individuals or groups a social or human problem.

The process of research involves emerging questions and procedures, collecting data in the participants’ setting; analyzing the data inductively, building from particulars to general themes; and making interpretations of the meaning of data. The final written report has a flexible writing structure. Qualitative research means the process of exploring and understanding the meaning of individual and group behavior, describing social or humanitarian problems.

The research process includes making research questions and procedures that are still temporary in nature, collecting partial data into themes, and then providing interpretations of the meaning of a data. The final activity is making flexible reports. Matthew stated that qualitative research is conducted through an intense and/or prolonged contact with a “field” or life situation. These situations are typically “banal” or normal ones, reflective of the daily life of individuals, groups, societies, and organizations. The researcher attempts to capture on the perceptions of local actors “from the inside”, through a process of deep attentiveness, of empathic understanding (Versthen), and of suspending or “bracketing” pre conceptions about the topics under the discussion<sup>26</sup>. Qualitative research is fundamentally explanatory. This means that the writer explained the data.

This includes formulating a description of the individual or the environment, analyzing the data of the subject or category, and finally explaining or drawing conclusions about the personal and theoretical significance, stating the lessons learned, and asking further questions.

2. The kind of qualitative research
  - a. Phenomenological research is a qualitative strategy in which the researcher identifies the essence of human experiences about a phenomenon as describe by participants in a study.
  - b. Grounded theory is a qualitative strategy in which the researcher derives a general, abstract theory of a process, action, or interaction grounded in the views of participants in a study.
  - c. Ethnography is a qualitative strategy in which the researcher studies and intact culture group in a natural setting over a prolonged period of time by collecting primarily observational and interview data.
  - d. Case studies are qualitative strategy in which the researcher explores in depth program, event, activity, process, or one more individuals. The case (s) is bonded by time and activity, and researchers collect detailed information using a variety of data collection procedures over sustained period of time.

- e. Narrative researcher is a qualitative strategy in which the researcher studies of individuals and ask one or more individuals to provide stories about their lives.
3. The characteristic of qualitative research
    - a. Qualitative research has the natural setting as the direct source of data and researcher is the key instrument.
    - b. Qualitative research is descriptive. The data collected is in the form of pictures rather than number.
    - c. Qualitative research is concerned with process rather than simply with outcomes or products.
    - d. “Meaning” is of essential to the qualitative approach.<sup>20</sup> From the above explanation, this research aims to analyze the grammatical error on using simple past tense in writing at the first graders of SMK Pelita Bangunrejo in the Academic Year of 2021/2022. This is dedicated to know the error commonly made by students in writing, especially recount text.

D. Data Resources

The purpose of this research is to get the data. It is the important thing in the research which is the form of the phenomenon in the field and number<sup>27</sup>. From the data, the researcher will know about the aim from the research. The data collecting should be relevant with the problem of research. In qualitative research, there are two sources which can be used for getting the data.

1. Primary Source

According to Sugiono, primary source is the source which could give valuable information directly. It means that the primary source is important data relate to problems of the research. For the primary source, the researcher uses the result of documentation<sup>28</sup>.

2. Secondary source

Secondary sources are additional sources to obtain data. Ownserves to collect data for different purposes while performing research.

This research was conducted in class X TKJ SMK Pelita Bangunrejo. It is the place where the researcher gets the data. the writer took the archive from the English assignment writing text recount for class X TKJ students. there are 34 students in class X TKJ, consisting of 20 female students and 14 male students. The data of this research were any errors found in the students' writing of recount text.

E. Data Collecting Technique

Data collection techniques are the most strategic steps in research, because the main purpose of research is to get data. Without knowing the data collection technique, the researcher will not get data that meets the established standards. there were four kinds of data collecting technique:

1. Documentation

Documentation is data collection method which is used for getting information from the written source or document, for instance books, magazines, notes, and other. The researcher uses documentation to obtain the data about the school profile such as history of the school, the number of teacher and staff officer and students at SMK Pelita Bangunrejo Besides, the documentation is used to visualize the classroom activity in the form of photograph.

2. Observation

In this research the researcher has use observation to see the condition in teaching-learning process. In this research the researcher has observe the students activities in teaching and learning process to know how the process of teaching and learning is held. In doing the observation the researcher makes the observation sheet that contains of list of students activities.

3. Interview

The purpose of this interview is to obtain direct information about certain situations and conditions. In this interview, the researcher will interview the teacher to get data for research at SMK Pelita Bangun Rejo.

Here, the researcher uses documentation as the technique of collecting data. The term documentation refers to a wide range of written, physical, and visual materials, including what other researcher may term artifacts.

Documents are records of past events. Documents can be in the form of writings, drawings, or monumental works of a person, written documents such as daily notes, life history, biographies, regulations, and policies, documents in the form of images, for example photos, live pictures, sketches and others, and documents in the form of works such as works of art, which can be in the form of pictures, sculptures, films, etc. Document study is a complement to the use of observation and interview methods in qualitative research.

The analysis in this research concerns on grammatical errors find in the students' writing in recount text. The analysis is based on surface strategy taxonomy. To guide analyzing obtained documents, the researcher made guidance as follows:

1. Read the students' writing two to three times to find grammatical errors in their writing.
2. Write down the grammatical errors in a table which represent one analyzed students' writings.
3. Each grammatical error which occurs will be noted in the table according to its classification.

F. Data Validity Technique

In addition to analyzing the data, researchers also need to test the validity of the data in order to obtain valid data. To establish the validity of the data needed examination techniques, in checking the validity of the data with qualitative methods required test plan that includes testing the validity of the credibility of the data dependability, transferability and objectivity.

G. Data Analysis

Data analysis is a systematic process search and compile interview transcripts, field notes, etc. materials you collect to improve your own understanding of them and to enable you to present what you have found to others. Data analysis is very important for the qualitative research process. It is for recognition, study, and understanding of the relationships and concepts in your hypothesized data and assertions can be developed and evaluated. Based on the explanation above, it can be concluded that the data analysis is the process of systematically searching and compiling the data obtained from the results of interviews, field notes, and documentation, by organizing data into categories, describing them into units, synthesizing, arranging into patterns, choosing which ones are important and what will be studied, and making conclusions so that they are easily understood by oneself.

In this study, the authors used one procedure; documentation. This The researcher is around checking students' errors in writing sentences. That the writer takes from the students' work and after that the researcher analyzes via fetch after step.<sup>29</sup>

1. Collecting data based on the results of students' writing assignments.
2. Checking the students' work, the writer analyzes what error that students make.
3. Identifying the students' works by checking their errors. That consists of: omission, addition, miss-formation, and miss-ordering.
4. Counting the total number of errors made by the students.
5. Calculating the error percentage for each type, the author uses.

The formula bellow :

$$p = \frac{fn}{N} \times 100\%$$

P : The Presentation of Errors

F : The Total Number of Errors

N : The Total Number of the sentences.

H. Indicator Of Success

Determine the research subject. In this case, the writer identifies the class that is the subject of the research. The subjects of this study were students of class X TKJ SMK Pelita Bangunrejo in the 2021/2022 academic year. Document information. Basically the documentation strategy is a strategy used to bring up chronic information "Documentation is a method of documentation, researchers investigate written materials such as books, magazines, documents, regulations, meeting notes, diaries, etc. Researchers used a documentation strategy to get information. Used to retrieve information from archives (information sources) steadily .Analyze data. Researchers collect all the data that has been recorded. From data collection, the writer analyzed students' mistakes in using past tense in compiling recount text. Make a research report. Finally, after analyzing the raw information collected, the researcher concludes the findings of the investigation and reports them.

RESULT OF THE RESEARCH AND DISCUSSION

A. Location of the Research

The general description that was assessed is as the complementari data. It is subjectively concerned in condition of school geographical of school building condition of school, and structure of organisational school.

1. Brief History about the Establishment of SMK Pelita Bangunrejo.

SMK Pelita Bangunrejo, Central Lampung Regency, was established on May 2, 1988 by Decree No. 075/YPP/V/1988 by Yayasan Pelita Bangunrejo and SK No. 902/1.12 BI/U/90 by the Minister of Cultural Education of the Republic of Indonesia on 20 June 1990. Which is located on Jalan Raya Barat No. 69 Bangunrejo, Central Lampung. This school was founded by the Pelita Education Foundation with a coaching background and community needs for office and trade education. , with majors so that the interest and desire of junior high school graduates to enter SMEA is very enthusiastic and positive, marked by the number of first generation students 170 people who are divided into two majoring classes, 80 students majoring in administration and 90 students majoring in administration. second grade. marketing management class.

Along with changes in regulations and improvements to the curriculum from the government, the name SMEA was changed to SMK, namely Vocational High School. Business and management groups with sales secretarial expertise programs and Pelita Vocational Schools have undergone accreditation three times and received recognized status and the results of accreditation in 2005 received a “B” rating for expertise. secretary and sales. And starting the 2008/2009 school year, Pelita Bangunrejo Vocational School added one more department, namely the finance department with an accounting expertise program.

SMK PELITA BANGUNREJO has experienced various school principals included:

1. Drs. MURJITO Period (1988 to 1990)
2. SUBADRUN, S.Pd.I Period (1991 to 2000)
3. YAHMUN, S.E,MM Period (2001 to 2004)
4. SUBADRUN, S.Pd.I Period (2005 to 2012)

B. Result of the Research

The main instrument of this research is task. The data were gained from the student writing. In collecting data, the writer asked the student of first grader (X TKJ) SMK Bangunrejo to make writing of recount text. Here, the writer only focused on classifying and identifying the students' task in writing recount text by using past tense and personal. The assignment of recount writing was respected as error. After checking the task result of the students' writing, it was found that there were four sorts of errors made by students in using past tense and personal pronouns in composing recount text based on Surface Strategy Taxonomy, they were omission, addition, miss-formation and miss-ordering.

1. Omission Error

Omission is characterized by the absences of things (word) required in a well-formed articulation. The total number of errors committed by students 34 (see appendix 9). The followed data were displayed as illustrations of the error did by the students:

Table 4.3.
The table of Omission Error Made by Students See Appendix 10

No	Sentences	Point of Omitted
1	I very happy. (no.2)	I was very happy (the absence of aux verb “was”)
2	Ten Vocational High School. (no.4)	Tenth of elementary Vocational High School (The absence of preposition “Of”)
3	We conversation. (no.7)	We made conversation. (the absence of Verb 2 “made”)
4	I not have a book. (no.)	I didn’t have a book. (the absence of aux verb “did”)
5	Teachers happy. (no.4)	Teachers were happy. (the absence of aux verb “were”)

2. Addition Errors

On the opposite from omission error is additional error. It is characterized by the presence of an item which does not show up in wellformed articulation. The overall number of addition errors committed by students were 19 ( see appendix 9) the took after information were displayed as cases of the error did by students.

Table 4.4.
The table of Addition Error Made by Students See Appendix

No	Sentence	Point of Addition
1	I am go to lab. (no 2)	I went to lab. (It didn’t need to add the preposition “To” before V2).
2	I am followed. (no. 8)	I followed. (It didn’t need to add aux verb “am” before v2)
3	We are prayed. (no.8)	We prayed. ( It didn’t need to add aux verb “are” before v2)
4	My friends until were in front of my home. (no. 10)	My friends were in front of my home. (It didn’t need to add preposition “until” before adverb)
5	I want to tell you are about. (no. 7)	I want to tell you about it. (it didn’t need to add aux verb “are” after object)

3. Miss-Formation Errors

Miss-formation errors are characterized by the employments of the wrong frame of the morpheme or structure. The total number of missformation errors committed by students 107 (see appendix 9). The taked after information was displayed as cases of the error did by the students:

Table 4.5.

The table of Miss-Formation Made by Student see appendix

No	Sentences	Point of Miss-Formation
1	Four practice book. (No.1)	Four practice books. (It is wrong formation, four was plural and should be followed by plural noun)
2	I go to computer lab. (No. 3)	I went to information place. (Verb 1 (go) should be change by V2 (went))

4	I was so happiness. (no. 5)	I was so happy. ( "Happiness" is a noun and it needs the adjective "happy" to complete the sentence).
5	That is my experience. (no. 6)	That was my experience. ( aux verb that use in recount text is "was")
6	He face is flat. (no. 11)	His face was flat. (The pronoun "he" should be changed by the possessive adjective "his" and the aux verb "is" should be changed by "was").
7	Left he (no.11)	Left him. ( pronoun "he" is the subject and Verb is followed by Object).
8	His name is Mr.Agin. (no.9)	His name was Mr Agin. ( "her" is a possessive pronoun from "she". Mr Sulis is a man and the possessive pronoun from “He” is “His”.

9	And I take graphic design. (no.6)	And I took graphic design. (Verb 1 (take) should be change by V2 (took))
10	The committee give I. (no.11)	The committee gave me. (the word “give” is for v1 and recount text is followed by verb 2 “Gave”. The pronoun “ I” is a subject in the sentence. It should be changed by “me” as an object)
11	I had a experience. ( no.8)	I had an experience. ( Article “a” is followed by consonant word and “an” is for vocal word).
12	My live destiny. (no. 4)	My life destiny. ( the word “live” is verb should be change by noun “life”)
13	We open Corel Draw. (no.9)	We opened Corel Draw. ( the word after preposition “for” should be followed by gerund “open ” to “opened )
14	I ever think. (no. 5)	I ever thought. ( The word “think” is for verb1. Recount text should be followed by verb2 “thought”).

4. Miss-Ordering Error

Miss-Ordering errors are characterized by the erroneous arrangement of morpheme or group of morpheme in an expression. The entire numbers of miss-ordering errors committed by students were 24 (see appendix 9). After taked information were displayed as illustrations of the error did by the students:

Table 4.6.
The table of Miss-Ordering Error Made by Student see Appendix

No	Sentences	Point of Miss-Ordering
1	Last Wednesday I on practiced. (no.4)	On last Wednesday I practiced. ( It doesn't fit subject verb agreement. In the sentence the verb comes first and it should be "Subject + verb")
2	My design bird finished. (no.8)	I finished my bird design. ( " bird as head of noun phrase should be put in the beginning)
3	We make outline first. (no.9)	First we make outline. ( "outline as head of noun phrase should be put in the beginning before article)
4	Design the new. (no. 10)	The new design. ( "new" as a adjective should be put before noun "destination")

5. Discussion of Finding

After collecting the data from the students, the errors were identified and then they were classified based on surface strategy taxonomy, According to Dulay the taxonomy that highlights the ways surface structures are altered: learners may omit necessary items or add unnecessary ones; they may missformation items or miss-ordering them.<sup>30</sup> Therefore, surface strategy taxonomy classifies errors into four: omission, addition, miss-formation and miss-ordering. To classify the types of errors the calculating of the percentage of error was shown to know the percentage of each type undertaken by students.

This study was conducted by applying a qualitative research. The researcher would like to discuss about finding of the students' error in writing recount text and the most dominant errors in writing recount text by participants of students of X TKJ SMK Pelita Bangunrejo . Based on the result, there were four students' errors: the errors in omission, addition, misinformation and misordering.

The errors in omission occurred when the students did not complete to writing the sentences. The error in addition is when the students add words that shouldn't be in the sentence. The error in misinformation is when the students fail to choose word form and error in using simple past. The errors in misordering is when the students incorrect placement of a morpheme or a group of morpheme. Based on the result, it was found the most dominant error in writing recount text is misinformation

Table 4.7.
The table of Total of Errors

No	ERRORS	TOTAL	PERCENTAGE
1	OMISSION	34	18,49%
2	ADDITION	19	10,32%
3	MIS-FORMATION	107	58,15%
4	MIS-ORDERING	24	13,04%
5	TOTAL	184	100%

Based on the result of the research, the researcher found four types of errors made by students in using simple past tense and personal pronoun in writing recount text based on surface strategy taxonomy, they were omission, addition, miss-formation, and miss-ordering. Then, the highest frequency of errors made by the students based on surface strategy taxonomy is missformation percentage is 58,15%, followed by omission with the percentage is 18,49% and miss-ordering with the percentage is 13,04% and the last is addition with 10.32%.

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION AND SUGGESTION

A. Conclusion

Based on the information collected and examination, the analyst drew a few conclusions and recommendations. Within the test course, after analyzing the result of the information analyst can be conclude:

1. The subject committed four sorts of error made by understudies is using Past Tense in recount text related content based on surface strategy taxonomy, they were Omission, Addition ,Mis-formation and Misordering.
2. The total number errors committed by students were 184 items. Here are frequency and percentage of the four types:
  - a. The number of Mis-formation errors with 107 items and the percentage is 58,15%.
  - b. The number of omission errors with 34 items and the percentage is 18,49%.
  - c. The number of Miss-Ordering errors with 21 items and the percentage is 13,04%.
  - d. The number of additional errors with 19 items and percentage is 10,32%.

B. Suggestion

Based on the findings of the research, the researcher would give some suggestions be cited as follows.

1. The suggestion is given to the English teacher that the researcher should not ignore the students' error, if it is possible to give proper correction to them using appropriate error correcting strategy.
2. Regularly practice the students expressing their idea through recount text as one of the alternatives, to accustom them to expressing their idea using English. It will be beneficial to prevent of at least to minimize the error committed in expressing their idea.
3. The researcher should give the explanation how to write a recount text to be a good sentences and give more examples to the students, more examples can make the students understand about writing recount text. Therefore, the students understand about writing recount text clearly and can make good recount text.
4. The researcher should give attention and motivation in their English writing.

d. Example of recount text

My First Date

Last Saturday night, my class mate, Jeno, came by his motorcycle at 5.30 pm at my home and asked my parents permission to ask me out on a date. He stayed for a while and talked to my dad while waiting for me to get ready. We took off around 6 pm.

Jeno then took me to a noodle house for dinner. I had noodle with shrimps and he had noodle with chicken. We finished our dinner rather quickly because he also wanted to take me to the movie theater. We arrived at the theater around 7.30 pm and it was very crowded. Some people came as a group, some as couple like Jeno and I. He queued for the tickets while I bought some popcorns and soda. The movie started at 7.50 until 9.45 pm.

After the movie ended, Jeno took me home and apologized to my parents if it was too late for me to come home. My parents understood and said it was fine. I was really glad and hoped Jeno would ask me out again another time.
